Fall 2011

WE HAVE THE NEWEST DRY SPREADING TECHNOLOGY AVAILABLE AT TWO LOCATIONS!

Both Nichols Agriservice and O'Toole Inc. have just added new spreading technology to their equipment line-up.

These new dry boxes enable us to spread two products at the same time. This ability to apply in one pass saves on compaction. The equipment allows for precision application and auto-steering. They are pan tested for precise, uniform distribution.

Call today so we can schedule your fall applications using this latest technology!

EARLY SEED DISCOUNTS AVAILABLE November 11!

DRAMATIC SAVINGS with Variable Rate Technology

"O'Toole's did conventional samples on a farm last fall. Those samples called for 3 ton of lime and a huge fertilizer recommendation. So they grid sampled it too and the results were dramatically different. The lime savings were $14 less and fertilizer $71 less for a total savings of over $85 per acre!"
